

I am not in favor of returning to large telephone company monopolies. The internet has been built up with large and small ISPs and frankly the competition has provided for both good pricing and service to the consumer. I would not want any legislation created which reduces the competitive field in internet service providers.